6 of 6 people found the following review helpful. Stop Crime, Stop Suffering, Hire a Felon By Sorcerer Supreme Gives lists of places for Felons to find work by state, with brief introduction. It's more of a sourcebook than an actual book, but I will use this to help the victims of the Criminal Justice System. Sure everybody screws up, but in the USA, it's like once you get a felony you are damned for eternity, only because them SOB's at DPS are selling the records out to make a buck off of. And if an ex-con cannot find work they will due to ignorance of their situation go back to what makes fast money, which is usually criminal. It seems this is what our Government wants, "A new form of Slavery". UPDATE 6/23/2013 I've called some of the numbers in this book, most of them are directed towards Workforce Solutions. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. By Sarah Boothroyd My friend, who is about to be released in NC said it wasn't helpful at all. not very many listings. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Dissapointment! By Virginia Schafer it was mostly resources that could be retrieved online. not much new !

The United States has the highest documented incarceration rate in the world; in 2008, for every 100,000 citizens, 764 were in jails or prisons. With nearly half of ex-convicts committing crimes after their release, numerous support programs exist to facilitate their successful reintegration to society. This is a directory of ex-offender programs run by the national government as well as by individual states (and Puerto Rico, Virgin Islands, Washington, D.C.). Addresses, phone numbers and web sites are listed for all organizations that aid the ex-convict in locating employment, housing, support groups, clothing and food. A vital resource for both organizations and individuals interested in the rehabilitation of released offenders.

"A useful, one-stop resource"--Booklist. About the Author Harry Spiller served two tours in Vietnam with the Marine Corps. A retired professor and former sheriff of Williamson County, Illinois, he previously taught criminal justice. He lives in West Frankfort, Illinois.
