Amazing how a quick 20 minute read can pack so much information. There were areas covered that I had never considered in writing a CV/Resume. Great job John.

IS THIS YOU? Sent off numerous job applications? Sent off countless CV/Resumes? Still waiting for that invitation to attend an interview? Wouldn't you love to have more than one job offer? The chances are that the problem is not YOU. Its more likely to be your CV/Resume. FACT: Job adverts often attract 200-300 applications. FACT: Recruiters do not read every CV/Resume they receive. FACT: 30-40% will be binned because they fail the 10 second test. Your problem is not that you lack what the recruiter is looking for, its more likely that previous recruiters havent read a word youve written. You failed to grab their attention or they were not impressed enough to read on. You need to get yourself noticed within 10 seconds. You need to persuade the recruiter that they MUST see you because you have exactly what theyre looking for. Getting an interview must be your #1 priority. The good news is that you are so close to achieving your goal. You are one step away from a life-changing decision. Your CV is the key that will unlock the interview room door. If your key doesn't fit you will remain on the outside. This book contains top tips on how to get noticed and how to get recruiters to want to meet you. When that invitation arrives, as it surely will if you follow the steps. move on to Top Tips: Interviewing. Good luck, John
