Took map along for recent trip to Uganda. Great for general use. However, as one might expect many names villages are not included. And, condition of roads varies considerably from legend info. One has to also bear in mind this is Africa we are talking about and even a two lane road show on map may be barely useable from Western standards. Glad I have it in my collection of reference material and since we were depending on expertise of guide who knew the "ends and outs" of roads we did not have to count on the map. No regrets as to purchasing.

This map was somewhat helpful. Unfortunately, it is not entirely accurate and left out the names of many larger villages / did not show intersections when they occurred so that if I were driving (instead of being driven by a guide), I would have become lost..

Legend includes railroads, trails, international airports, national airports, aerodromes, gasoline/petrol stations, post offices, hospitals/medical facilities, points of interest or vistas, ruins, archaeological sites, museums, campsites/huts, mines, resthouses/hostels, lodging, car ferries, forts, border crossings. Includes inset overview map of Kampala, information about Uganda and extensive place name index.
