Incredibly thorough--you could only use this bookBy Christine McMullinIf you are looking for a book to tell you EVERYTHING about assessments and how to use them, this is your Bible. It's incredibly thorough and gives you all the info you need. I skipped around because I only use some of the assessments that they talk about, but it's the guidebook through all the familiar ones and even gives some case studies. I'd recommend it for anyone who works with clients, adult or teen, who wants to have a good handle on what all of the assessments do.1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. TextbookBy CustomerA great textbook for Career

Counseling. It's definitely a keeper. It was amazing learning the details that go into counseling clients for choosing a career. This is by "go-to" manual for helping my people make a fulfilling career choice. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. they liked it. By BTGift for friend. they liked it.

An excellent resource in both career development and tests and measurement courses, USING ASSESSMENT RESULTS FOR CAREER DEVELOPMENT, 8e vividly illustrates how to use assessment instruments to increase clients' self-awareness and help them make rational career choices. Extremely practical, this hands-on worktext delivers detailed information on applying knowledge of tests and measurements in clinical settings and using assessment results in a wide variety of counseling situations. Through case studies, charts, bulleted/numbered lists, dialogues, agency addresses, and more, students learn to truly master the use of assessment results.

Osborn (Ph.D., Florida State University) is an associate professor in the department of Counselor Education at Florida State University. She has an established program of research with three specific foci. These include the design and use of technology in counseling, innovation and effectiveness in counselor education, and the design and use of assessments in career services. Dr. Osborn is passionate about career counseling, having served as president of the National Career Development Association and as a counselor educator for almost two decades. Vernon Zunker is a retired professor from Southwest Texas State University. He earned his Ed.D. with an emphasis on counseling from the University of Houston and completed a residency in clinical psychology at the University of Texas Medical School at Galveston. Although retired from teaching, Dr. Zunker continues to push the discipline forward by keeping career counseling relevant to all counseling students.
